How we use special category personal data

Special category personal data (this term is explained in the Definitions section below) attracts a higher level of protection. Data protection law requires us to have an additional condition where we are collecting, storing and using special category personal data.

The conditions that we most commonly rely on to collect, use or share your special category personal data include:

- In limited circumstances, your explicit consent.
- Where we need to carry out our legal obligations or exercise rights in the field of employment.
- Where it is needed in the public interest, such as for equal opportunities monitoring.

Less commonly, we may process this type of information where it is needed in relation to legal claims or where it is needed to protect your vital interests (or someone else's vital interests) and you are not capable of giving your consent, or where you have already made the information public.

Purposes for which we use your special category personal data

In general, we will not process special category personal data about you unless it is necessary for performing or exercising obligations or rights in connection with your relationship with us. There may also be other reasons for processing, such as where it is in the public interest to do so. We have indicated below the purpose or purposes for which we are processing or may process your special category personal data.

- We will use information about your race or national or ethnic origin, religious, philosophical or moral beliefs, or your sexual life or sexual orientation, to ensure meaningful equal opportunity monitoring and reporting.

- Sub-processors and service providers including our pre-employment screening check provider or other providers details of which can be provided upon request.

How can you choose and control what information we send you?

You can choose whether you wish to receive promotional emails, SMS messages and telephone calls from Mace by visiting the preference centre. <http://content.macegroup.com/preferences>

We encourage you to keep your personal settings and personal data accurate and up to date.

If you are accessing our site from the United States of America, we process your data in accordance with the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA). You can opt out of the sale or sharing of your personal information by clicking "Do Not Sell My Personal Information". To do so, please see cookie preferences.

How long do we keep hold of your information?

We only store your information for as long as is required for the purpose it was collected. Should you wish to have more information about how long we retain your data, please contact our Data Protection Team at: GDPR.Queries@macegroup.com

Information stored generally on IT systems, such as email history, will be deleted regularly in line with our policies.

Automated decision making

Automated decision-making takes place when an electronic system uses personal information to make a decision without human intervention. We are allowed to use automated decision-making in the following circumstances:

1. Where we have notified you of the decision and given you 21 days to request a reconsideration.
2. Where it is necessary to perform the contract with you and appropriate measures are in place to safeguard your rights.
3. In limited circumstances, with your explicit written consent and where appropriate measures are in place to safeguard your rights.

If we make an automated decision on the basis of any particularly sensitive personal information, we must have either your explicit written consent or it must be justified in the public interest, and we must also put in place appropriate measures to safeguard your rights.

Who might we share your information with?

Where information is shared with third parties we will only share the information required for the purpose it is being shared.

For the purposes set out in the 'Why do we collect this information?' section above, we have the right to share your personal information with:

- We use a third party provider, Hootsuite to manage our social media interactions. If you send us a private or direct message via social media the message will be stored by Hootsuite, it will not be shared with any other organisations.
- Our clients and prospective clients.
- Our suppliers and sub-contractors
- Other companies in Mace Group.

Additionally, we will disclose your personal information to the relevant third party:

- In the event that we sell or buy any business or assets, in which case we will disclose your personal data to the prospective seller or buyer of such business or assets.
- To third parties when it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
- If we are acquired by a third party, in which case personal data held by it about its customers will be one of the transferred assets.
- If we choose to exercise a legal power to do so.
- If we are under a duty to disclose or share your personal data in order to comply with any legal obligation, or in order to enforce or apply contractual terms or other agreements; or to protect the rights, property, or safety of ourselves our customers, our regulator, or others. This includes exchanging information with other companies and organisations for the purposes of fraud protection and prevention of money laundering and credit risk reduction.

How your data is stored and kept secure?

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal information from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way, altered or disclosed. In addition, we limit access to your personal information to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need to know. They will only process your personal information on our instructions and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality. Details of these measures may be obtained from the DPCM.

We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected breach where we are legally required to do so.

International transfers

Due to the way that Mace Group operates, companies within Mace Group may be subject to the UK GDPR and/or the EU GDPR and/or the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) or other privacy regulations.

You have the right:

- to ask us not to process your personal data for marketing purposes;
- to ask us not to process your personal data where it is processed on the basis of legitimate interests provided that there are no compelling reasons for that processing;
- where processing of your personal data is based on consent, to withdraw that consent at any time.
- to request from us access to personal information held about you;
- to ask for the information we hold about you to be rectified if it is inaccurate or incomplete;
- to ask for data to be erased provided that the personal data is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected, you withdraw consent (if the legal basis for processing is consent), you exercise your right to object, set out below, and there are no overriding legitimate ground for processing, the data is unlawfully processed, the data needs to be erased to comply with a legal obligation;
- to ask for the processing of that information to be restricted if the accuracy of that data is contested, the processing is unlawful, the personal data is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected or you exercise your right to object (pending verification of whether there are legitimate grounds for processing); and
- to ask for data portability if the processing is carried out by automated means and the legal basis for processing is consent or contract.

Should you have any issues, concerns or problems in relation to your data, or wish to notify us of data which is inaccurate, please let us know by contacting us using the contact details above. In the event that you are not satisfied with our processing of your personal data, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the relevant supervisory authority at any time. The relevant supervisory authority in the UK is the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO). The ICO's contact details are available here: <https://ico.org.uk/concerns/>.

What we ask of you

- Keeping your information accurate and up to date. If your information changes for any reason, for example if you change your name, address, then you should inform us of the change as soon as possible so that we can ensure your information is kept accurate and up to date. Please log into your preference centre to amend and update your information. <https://resources.macegroup.com/preference-centre>
- Business cards. If you issue business cards to us, your data will be processed by those who you share the business cards with. It is reasonably expected that the data will only be processed by those you share it with for business purposes, principally, to contact you in relation to your role and your business.
